

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A modular sign for use in a business conference environment where there is a need identify specific people or groups having a base, a vertical support member and additional vertical and horizontal member all of which are arranged to carry and display a display member. The display member has a signage face on each side. The sign is easily broken into individual horizontal and vertical member for storage and travel.